The bus stops here

The 9/11 Tour Bus made its first stop in Massachusetts yesterday, and was greeted by Boston firefighters. The bus has toured the country since Jan. 25, collecting pictures of people at each stop and raising donations through the sale of patches, decals, pins and flags. All donations will go a 9/11 charity. METRO

Sharks in the water?

WINTHROP. Officials received several calls about shark sightings off the shores of the coastal town Wednesday, according to reports.

Officials were investigating the sightings, including one caller who claimed they saw a 12-foot shark in the water near Winthrop.

WCVB reported that the three sightings called in were off Point Shirley near Yirrell Beach and Broadband Beach, officials said. METRO

Report: Hub heroin problem persistent in the last decade

Stats show jump in opioid treatment admissions ◗ Addiction starting at younger age ◗ City officials: Rx drugs have impacted city, led to heroin use

If you had asked Rita Nieves 10 years ago if she could have predicted Boston would be plagued by an opiate epidemic, she would have said no.

"Prescription drugs have impacted the city in the last decade," said Nieves, director of the city's Addictions Prevention Treatment and Recovery Support Services Bureau. "It's a constant battle and the drug scene is always changing. As drugs change, the age groups and people who try them also change."

Since 2003, the heroin admissions rate for people under 30 has shot up 40 percent in Boston, according to the data released Wednesday in a 110-page report by the BPHC and the mayor's office.

"Lots of young people and teenagers experiment with prescription drugs and progress quickly to heroin, which is readily available and very cheap."
RITA NIEVES, DIRECTOR OF THE CITY'S ADDICTIONS PREVENTION TREATMENT AND RECOVERY SUPPORT SERVICES

From 2006 to 2008, South Boston had the highest average annual heroin-opioid mortality rate among all Boston neighborhoods.

Experts say the battle against drugs will never end.

"I think we are doing a good job, we are certainly doing more than we have ever done in areas of prevention," said Nieves. "But we will never be done in our work, it will always be about trying to stay current and anticipate what will be next."

Right now, it's opiates, according to Peter Collins, director at New Hope TSS in Boston.

"Heroin is the primary drug of choice out there without a doubt," he said.

Collins said in the decade he has been at the facility, heroin use has increased in Boston and the age of users has decreased.

"They start with Oxycodone or Oxycontin and develop a habit in their teen years," he said.

According to Raymond Tamasi, CEO at Gosnold on Cape Cod, more young people are being introduced to those types of drugs at the gateway level instead of nicotine, marijuana and alcohol.

"At some point they often migrate to heroin," he said, because it's cheaper.

"Heroin has been one of our major problems for a long time," agreed Nieves.

By the numbers

According to the Substance Abuse in Boston 2011 findings:

- 86 percent Percent of heroin users who said they injected the drug in 2010
- 62 percent Percent that opioid treatment admissions increased in last 10 years, excluding heroin
- 119 percent From 2001 to 2010, increase in black admissions for opioid treatment, excluding heroin
- 53 percent From 2001 to 2010, increase in white admissions for opioid treatment, excluding heroin
- 267 More narcotic-related illnesses in 2010 than the prior year
- 3x Heroin-opioid mortality rate for men over women in Boston from 2006 to 2008
- 42 percent Percent the admissions rate for heroin treatment of users 30 and under increased from 2003 to 2010

Giving praise

Mayor Thomas Menino and city officials held a vigil Wednesday night in Copley Square to tout a drop in heroin overdose-related deaths.

▶ Who wouldn't want to party with these guys?

Wanted: Dropkick Murphys band-aid

The Dropkick Murphys are looking for a roadie.

"I don't want to hype this up for people to think they can come and be an a—hole," said Ken Casey, lead singer and bassist from the Dropkick Murphys. "But there will be some pre-show and post-show partying going on, so they will fit right in."

For an entire day, a raffle-winner and a friend will be shipped up to Boston to shadow the band and receive party tips and gifts.

The winner of the "roadie for a day" raffle shouldn't expect to do any heavy lifting, said Casey, it's more about appreciation for supporting their charity, the Claddagh Fund.

But partying hard is welcomed, Casey said.

Roadie training

- Buy a $5 raffle ticket at www.nhlalumniraffles.com
- Raffle ends Friday, Sept. 2 at 5 p.m.
- Winner gets two backstage tickets to sold-out show at Fenway
- Hang with Dropkick Murphys all day
- Prepare to party

"They will know if they cross the line cause they will get smacked around a little," he joked. "We have seen every stunt someone can try and pull, so nothing will surprise us. But you never know."

You don't need to be a rock god to enjoy the day with the group, however.

"It could be someone that just wants a free air ticket, as long as they paid for the raffle and supported the effort, I couldn't care either way," said Casey.

Casey, who founded the Claddagh Fund, joined the Boston Bruins Foundation to host the online raffle.

Proceeds will benefit both organizations.

Casey said he is excited return to Boston and play at Fenway Park on Sept. 9.

"We have had many appearances, but to do our own show at Fenway, it's one of those things you can't help but save for the scrapbook," he said.

Tweeters give frosh advice

As freshmen move into Boston for the first time, the Hub's Twitter nation began compiling advice for those who aren't familiar with the ways of a Bostonian. The hashtag #BosFroshAdvice took over the last couple days, getting hundreds of locals offering advice — some hostile — to the class of 2015. Even Mayor Thomas Menino got involved, linking tips for students. METRO/SA

Waters recede but victims still suffering

- Days after Hurricane Irene, 1.7 million without power
- Obama to tour NJ's damage
- TS Katia strengthening

Floodwaters finally started to recede from areas of the northeast devastated by Hurricane Irene but many communities were still underwater on Wednesday and relief workers battled cut-off roads and raging rivers to deliver emergency supplies.

The storm battered the East Coast with up to 15 inches of rain on Saturday and Sunday, setting river level records in 10 states, the Geological Survey said.

4K

Acres of tomato crops flattened and swamped on Virginia's Eastern Shore by Hurricane Irene. Corn, cotton and tobacco also suffered damage.

Wide swathes of New Jersey, upstate New York and Vermont experienced the worst flooding in decades, and while many disaster areas began to see waters recede other rivers had not yet crested, the USGS said.

Some 1.7 million homes and businesses were still without power after as many as 6.7 million had lost electricity.

With damage in the billions of dollars — Standard & Poor's estimated the national total at $20 billion, though others have put the number at half that — homeowners were also battling insurance companies that exclude flood damage coverage.

Adding to the anxiety, the Federal Emergency Management Agency said it had to put long-term projects on hold and focus on rushing immediate relief to battered states because it had only $800 million left in its disaster relief fund. REUTERS

Pols view damage

President Barack Obama will travel to Paterson, N.J., on Sunday to view damage caused by Hurricane Irene, the White House said. New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie and Department of Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano also planned to tour Lincoln Park, one of the towns heavily damaged by Passaic River flooding.

Katia likely to be hurricane

Tropical Storm Katia was expected to strengthen into a hurricane over the open Atlantic on Wednesday.

Katia had sustained winds of 65 miles per hour and would become the second hurricane this season if winds reach 74 mph.

It was forecast to become a major hurricane on Sunday but it was still too early to tell whether it would threaten land. REUTERS

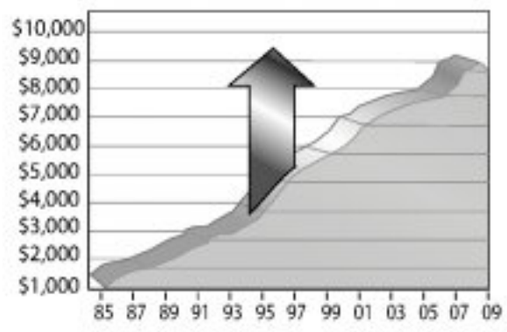
Credit Card Debt?

Solutions that can help you get out of debt.

Tom Hill
CGA STAFF WRITER

Every three minutes another person falls behind on credit card debt. It's no wonder, since every major credit card company has nearly doubled the minimum monthly payment on consumers' bills. Federal Regulators forced the change because of their concern about the growing mountain of consumer debt, which stands at $2.17 trillion. Many consumers can only pay the minimum payment, which can take up to 30 years to pay off. Now, relief is in sight for millions of Americans.

U.S. CREDIT CARD DEBT PER HOUSEHOLD ($)



(Data Source: U.S. Federal Reserve)

CreditGUARD of America, a non-profit licensed debt management service provider, is making a new program available to lower debt payments and become free of all credit card debt in only three to five years. Consumers need only $2,000 or more in total credit card debt and falling behind on any account, to cut their payment by 35% to 50%, and reduce or eliminate interest charges altogether.

Over 200,000 families, located throughout the U.S. have regained financial independence with CreditGUARD's licensed, bonded and insured service. CreditGUARD of America has received high marks in consumer surveys showing high consumer satisfaction and confidence. The CreditGUARD debt management program can lower your monthly payments by hundreds and save you thousands!

One such case is Sandra L. who proclaimed "CreditGUARD cut my monthly payment by $656 and saved me over $29,206.53 in interest. They saved my way of life and gave me back my piece of mind! Now I can see myself on my way to becoming debt free." or Jeffery C. who said "CreditGUARD of America helped me consolidate 3 of my credit cards into one affordable payment. They are now saving me nearly $200 a month. Now I will be debt free in 2 years or less"

Majority of US growth: Minorities

The ethnic map of U.S. cities has drastically changed in the last decade, which could affect how major metropolitan areas provide social, educational and health services, according to a study released by the Brookings Institution.

Nonwhite people and Hispanics accounted for 98 percent of the population growth in metropolitan areas from 2000 to 2010, Brookings found in its analysis of the 2010 U.S. Census.

By 2010, minorities made up more than half the population in 22 of the 100 largest metro areas, it said. That compares with 14 areas in 2000 and five in 1990.

All of the 100 largest cities showed declines in the white population from 2000 to 2010.

"Overall, most of these 'majority minority' metro areas are located in California and Texas, where Hispanics dominate the minority population," Brookings said.

The research group found that "diverse Hispanic and Asian communities who speak a variety of languages and represent different origins" are growing in many cities. REUTERS

Gen. Petraeus on his way to the CIA

WASHINGTON. Gen. David Petraeus warned against sacrificing U.S. military capabilities to ease America's budget woes, as he retired from the Army on Wednesday ahead of becoming CIA director.

Petraeus, 58, rose through the ranks to become arguably the U.S. military's brightest star, credited for helping to turn around the Iraq war and for helping to halt the momentum of Taliban militants in Afghanistan. He led U.S. troops in both conflicts and briefly oversaw the entire region as head of the U.S. military's Central Command.

At the CIA, Petraeus will replace Leon Panetta, who became U.S. defense secretary. He will be sworn in on Sept. 6. Petraeus acknowledged he was leaving the U.S. military at a delicate moment. REUTERS

Ripped from the headlines

Does being "the movie of our time" always translate into big box-office bucks? The studios are hoping so with these thrillers that are all closely (sometimes unnervingly) related to current events.

▶ Sept. 9: 'Contagion' This ensemble thriller takes the panicked outbreak of the Avian flu in 2009 and twists it into the realization of our worst nightmares. Steven Soderbergh directs.

▶ Sept. 23: 'Moneyball' This baseball movie is based on the groundbreaking drafting methods of Oakland A's general manager, Billy Beane. Take comfort, ladies. Brad Pitt stars as Beane alongside Jonah Hill, Robin Wright and Phillip Seymour Hoffman.

SAEED ADYANI

▶ Oct. 21: 'Margin Call' This thriller will likely capture the desperate atmosphere of the 2009 financial crisis in a way that Oliver Stone tried and failed at with "Wall Street 2: Money Never Sleeps." More directly based on the crash, director J.C. Chandor's first film stars Zachary Quinto, Stanley Tucci and Kevin Spacey.

▶ Oct. 7: 'The Ides of March' Based on the play "Farragut North," this political thriller depicts the manipulations behind the scenes of a presidential campaign loosely based on that of Howard Dean. The hot factor is turned way up with Ryan Gosling and George Clooney co-starring as a political aide and electorial candidate, respectively.

FALL MOVIE GUIDE

Is it just us or are you also ready for some meatier material now that Transformers and barbarians and superheroes have trampled through the movie theaters for the last three months? We've rounded up some of the most noteworthy films coming out this season — and even put aside a selection of lighthearted films that will let you pretend you're still going to the movies just to be in the air conditioning.

HEIDI PATALANO
heidi.patalano@metro.us

This weekend

▶ Mirren

▶ 'The Debt' Helen Mirren plays a secret agent seeking the killer of Nazi crimes she first investigated in 1965.

▶ 'Shark Night 3D' Sharks will eat innocent humans by way of a demented psychopath who uses the deadly sea creatures as his instruments of torture.

▶ 'Apollo 18' Revisionist history is always fun — especially when it involves aliens wandering around on the moon in the late 1960s. Comprised of "found footage," we hear this film being dubbed as "Blair Witch in Space."

▶ 'A Good Old-Fashioned Orgy' A hapless partier (Jason Sudeikis) tries to get his friends to have an orgy in his father's empty Hamptons home.

METRO/HP

Ripped from the history books

These aren't your average costume dramas. The period pieces most popular with today's audiences take place within the last 60 years. Though only "J. Edgar" is based on historical fact, these three will no doubt get some award nods down the line, in part for their period charm.

▶ Oct. 28: 'The Rum Diary' Johnny Depp continues his lifelong homage to gonzo journalist Hunter S. Thompson in this movie based on the author's novel by the same name.

▶ Nov. 9: 'J. Edgar' With Clint Eastwood directing and Leonardo DiCaprio taking a little time off from his best bud Martin Scorsese, this biopic is an easy front-runner on every must-see list.

▶ Nov. 18: 'Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy' Set in Cold War-era Britain in the 1970s, this flick stars Gary Oldman as an intelligence expert on the dangerous, potentially deadly search for a Russian mole within MI6.

KEITH BERNSTEIN

▶ Leonardo DiCaprio plays the legendary J. Edgar Hoover in the biopic directed by Clint Eastwood.

Ripped off from another movie

Borrowing from an old movie or remaking it entirely isn't always a bad thing. As a matter of fact, these formulas keep getting repeated because we keep paying good money to see them! Here are some plots that may seem vaguely familiar.

ALEX SAKHAROV

▶ James Marsden and Kate Bosworth star in the remake of Sam Peckinpah's classic film, "Straw Dogs."

▶ Sept. 16: 'Straw Dogs' This remake of the British 1971 film moves the setting to the Deep South, where a newly relocated husband and wife (James Marsden and Kate Bosworth) are confronted by hostile locals.

▶ Sept. 23: 'Killer Elite' When is Jason Statham ever NOT a skilled killer on a mission to knock off some dudes? Here, he's out to avenge his mentor, played by Robert De Niro.

▶ Oct. 7: 'The Thing' It's never too soon for a remake, especially of this 1982 classic originally starring Kurt Russell.

▶ Oct. 21: 'Paranormal Activity 3' Why are horror films always the easiest to repeat over and over and over again?

▶ Oct. 21: 'The Three Musketeers' This new "Musketeers" differentiates itself with improved special effects and Christoph Waltz.

▶ Nov. 4: 'Tower Heist' Billing itself as "an urban 'Ocean's Eleven'" this heist film starring Ben Stiller, Eddie Murphy and Matthew Broderick could be ridiculous fun or a full-on disaster. We're pulling for the former.

▶ Nov. 23: 'The Muppets' There's nothing wrong with reviving the ever-charming Muppets, this time with a script written by Jason Segel, who also co-stars with the lovable crew.

KING RICHARD'S FAIRE
OPEN WEEKENDS SEPT. 3 - OCT. 23 • CARVER • KingRichardsFaire.net

Must-see movies and fun to boot

Must-see

We selected a few films that we think will be this season's cream of the crop.

▶ Sept. 16: 'Drive' The director of "Bronson" takes on this moody, noir-ish tale of a Hollywood stunt driver (Ryan Gosling — he's been busy lately) who moonlights as a get-away car driver for criminals. We've seen this one already and promise it is worth seeing.

▶ Oct. 14: 'The Skin I Live In' One of the most highly anticipated releases of the fall will be Pedro Almodovar's thriller about a demented plastic surgeon who experiments on a captive human subject.

▶ Oct. 21: 'Martha Marcy May Marlene' This tale got a thumbs-up from the festival circuit. We expect to be delightfully creeped out by the sad story of a woman experiencing post-traumatic stress after leaving a mysterious cult.

FRED HAYES

▶ Anton Yelchin and Felicity Jones co-star in "Like Crazy."

▶ Oct. 28: 'Like Crazy' This tender coming-of-age tear-jerker stars Felicity Jones and "Fright Night" cutie Anton Yelchin as star-crossed lovers trying to make a long-distance relationship work.

▶ Nov. 11: 'Melancholia' Director Lars Von Trier has been quoted as saying his latest work is his most hopeless film yet. The last one he did was called "Antichrist" ... so, you figure it out.

▶ Nov. 23: 'The Descendants' The film industry serves you, on a silver platter, the movie you will go see with your parents when you're home for Thanksgiving. George Clooney plays the husband to a comatose wife who's gliding by until he is suddenly faced with the duty of raising his two daughters.

Light and easy

Just because summer is over doesn't mean you have to wean yourself off the mindless fluff. A steady supply will keep coming.

▶ Sept. 9: 'Bucky Larson: Born to Be a Star' Nick Swardson plays a Midwestern hick who travels to Hollywood to become a porn star.

▶ Sept. 16: 'I Don't Know How She Does It' Sarah Jessica Parker moves beyond Carrie Bradshaw to play a mom trying to keep her job, family and sanity intact.

▶ Sept. 30: 'What's Your Number?' Anna Faris considers the frightening number of men she's bedded and tracks down each ex in order find her true love.

▶ Oct. 7: 'Real Steel' Only two words need to be said here: boxing robots!

DREAMWORKS

▶ Heck, yeah! Boxing robots star in "Real Steel"!

▶ Oct. 28: 'In Time' Built on the concept of a world where people stop aging at 25, this film stars two of the prettiest twentysomethings around — Justin Timberlake and Amanda Seyfried.

▶ Oct. 28: 'Safe' Elite Agent played by (shocker!) Jason Statham faces off with the Russian mafia. We're beginning to think that this man has a prop gun surgically attached to his hand.

▶ Nov. 4: 'A Very Harold and Kumar 3D Christmas' We can't wait to see what this stoner franchise is going to do with 3-D effects. Hallucination sequences are mandatory.

▶ Nov. 11: 'Jack and Jill' Adam Sandler cross-dresses to play his own twin sister. We know, you can't wait.

▶ Nov. 18: 'The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn Part 1' Nothing needs to be said here, except: Edward and Bella forever!

Escape from the uncanny valley

Jamie Bell, star of 'The Adventures of Tintin,' on the technology that turned him into the beloved character

So long, uncanny valley!

"Obviously for us to talk about [an uncanny valley], is death," says Bell. "An uncanny valley is when the [animated] eyes are not engaged in an emotional way. Luckily, they've managed to fix that. I feel like people are going to forget what uncanny valley means and that's what we're looking for."

Jamie Bell can handle just about any challenge he can face as an actor. His first role ever after all, was that of the iconic 14-year-old dancing savant in "Billy Elliot," back in 2000. Earlier this year, he fenced his way through complex fight scenes in icy rivers for the Roman epic "The Eagle." And this winter, he will take on one of the most beloved characters of all time using motion-capture technology for "The Adventures of Tintin."

It sounds as though acting with a green screen might be difficult, but Bell is quick to dismiss this as any kind of challenge.

Captain Haddock, Snowy and Tintin in "The Adventures of Tintin"

"An actor who enters into a motion-capture film will bring to the table exactly what they bring to the table in a live-action film," he says. "The only difference is that you don't wear costumes and the props in front of you are representational of what they are in the virtual world."

As a young child, the 25-year-old Brit had loved the Tintin comics, which served as an inspiration to him.

"Everything he did, I wanted to do myself," he says. "I wanted to be a journalist. Traveling the world, great, always wanted to do that as a child. Tintin did it every week on my TV set."

Not many people get to see themselves animated as a favorite fictional character. And for Bell, seeing scenes from the Steven Spielberg-helmed "Tintin" was unsettling.

"It's weird seeing my facial articulations, all that stuff, on another person's body with another person's face — but I think that's only weird to me," he says. "I think [people] will be blown away by how advanced this technology is, how good the animation is, how, 'oh thank God it's not like those other films' [it is]. We've really stepped up the bar."

Quoted

"They are outrageous together. They are bone-crunchingly, ball-bouncingly funny."

This week, @liljordankid was miffed that Irene messed up Boston Metro's publishing schedule, @Mjlamp and @PushitupACV2 keep me informed of their Labor Day plans, and everyone else writes in about the news that Nancy Grace will be on DWTS. Egad!

▶ @liljordankid I wish the metro was published today. I have nothing better to do than tweet u on my way to work

▶ @Mjlamp Tennis, anyone? I'll be @usopen

▶ @PushitupACV2 hitting the beach, local rest. and the gym.

▶ @happywithmyname She'll sue everyone who doesn't vote for her...

▶ @dsensationale without the Casey Anthony trial, i suppose she has some free time.

▶ @zeitlingeist Maybe she'll force them to choreograph her dances to her own Casey Anthony commentary.

▶ @MeredithAtMetro just read she 'thought she was dreaming' when she got the call to do it. being asked on DWTS sounds like a nightmare to me.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

When skeletons attack!

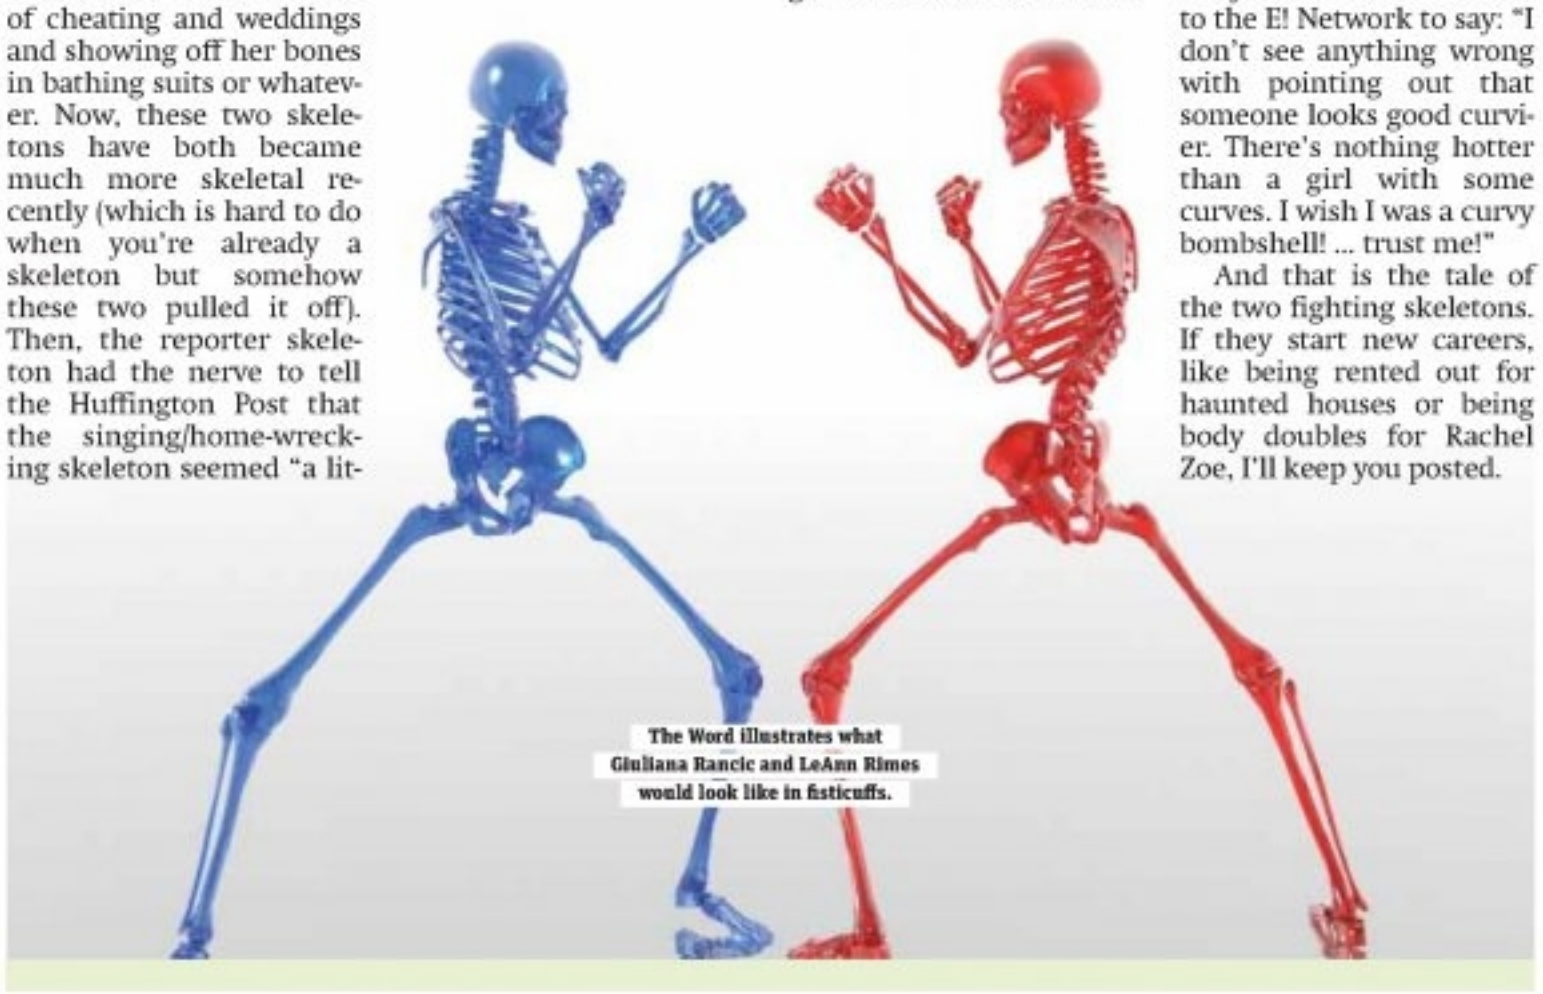
Once upon a time, there were two living skeletons. One was an entertainment journalist named Giuliana Rancic and the other was called LeAnn Rimes, and she was once famous for being a singer but is now known to us because of cheating and weddings and showing off her bones in bathing suits or whatever. Now, these two skeletons have both became much more skeletal recently (which is hard to do when you're already a skeleton but somehow these two pulled it off). Then, the reporter skeleton had the nerve to tell the Huffington Post that the singing/home-wrecking skeleton seemed "a little thin right now" and went as far as saying, "I think she looks great when she's a bit curvier."

www.metro.us
MORE GOSSIP
WWW.METRO.US/WORD
DOROTHY ROBINSON'S WORD BLOG

Well, the singing/home-wrecking skeleton didn't like this too much and tweeted to her: "@GiulianaRancic hey, we should go to dinner sometime. You get criticized all the time for how small you are. You can see just HOW much I eat and maybe put a stop to this crazy 'shrinking' once and for all."

But the Rancic skeleton wouldn't back down! No, she just held up her tiny bony fists and then went to the E! Network to say: "I don't see anything wrong with pointing out that someone looks good curvier. There's nothing hotter than a girl with some curves. I wish I was a curvy bombshell! ... trust me!"

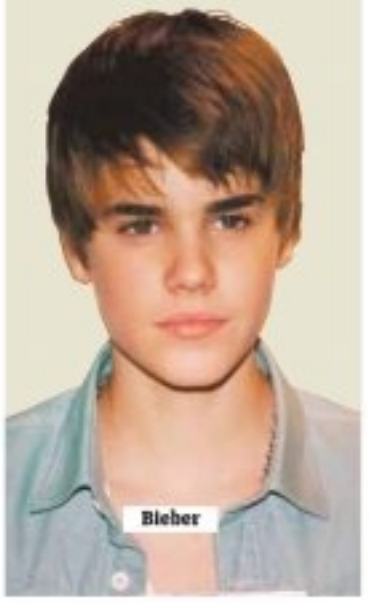
And that is the tale of the two fighting skeletons. If they start new careers, like being rented out for haunted houses or being body doubles for Rachel Zoe, I'll keep you posted.



The Word illustrates what Giuliana Rancic and LeAnn Rimes would look like in fisticuffs.

His first car accident

Justin Bieber reached another milestone — his first fender-bender. The 17-year-old singer's black Ferrari reportedly collided with a Honda Civic in an underground parking structure, according to the L.A. Times. Bieber was behind the wheel at the time. "No one was injured and there was no damage to either vehicle," the LAPD said in a statement. Glad we could all share in this life step with him.



Bieber

Talking points

Their Canadian getaway

Jessica Biel and Justin Timberlake put an end to their relationship back in March, but now there's speculation that their breakup might not stick, according to Hollyscoop. Biel and Timberlake were spotted recently sharing brunch and a leisurely bike ride in Toronto, where Biel is currently filming. "They were in good spirits," an eyewitness says. "They seemed happy. They had brunch together. They were talking. They enjoyed their food. They had a nice time." But even if the pair are rekindling their flame, don't expect Timberlake to get too talkative about it. "In my 30 years, she is the most special person," he told Vanity Fair in June. "I don't want to say much more, because I have to protect things that are dear to me — for instance, her."

Baby time for Weisz?

Newlyweds Rachel Weisz and Daniel Craig haven't ruled out adding a baby to their household, but the motivation has to be right, Weisz tells Lucky magazine. "Oh, I wouldn't make [a baby] just for the sake of giving my son a sibling," she says. "But you never know." Weisz has a 5-year-old son, Henry, from her relationship with Darren Aronofsky, while Craig has a 19-year-old daughter, Ella, from a previous marriage.

Lively treks it to Australia

Blake Lively made quite the trek for a belated birthday dinner with rumored boyfriend Leonardo DiCaprio, reportedly flying to Australia, where he's filming "The Great Gatsby," according to Us Weeky. Sources say the pair shared a romantic dinner in Sydney to toast Lively's 24th birthday. It was something of a whirlwind trip, though, as the "Gossip Girl" star was back at work in New York by Tuesday, sources confirm.

In honor of Labor Day, here are a few 'working' stars

1: Taylor Hicks lended a hand to Habitat For Humanity on March 18 of last year in Birmingham, Ala.

2: Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge shoveled earth during a tree planting ceremony as her husband Prince William, Duke of Cambridge, looked on at Rideau Hall on July 2 in Ottawa, Canada.

3: Bette Midler and her trusty shovel attended the 2011 MillionTreesNYC Arbor Day Planting and Celebration at the NYCHA Justice Sonia Sotomayor Community Center on April 28 in the Bronx.

4: Rosario Dawson worked for the Hollywood Habitat for Humanity on June 18 in Burbank, Calif.

5: P. Diddy actually got his hands dirty at the Toffee Park Adventure Playground and Youth Centre while helping volunteers for Orange Rock Corps on July 11 in London.

6: Brad Pitt volunteered at the Global Green USA's first house project at the Holy Cross Neighborhood Association project in the Ninth Ward district of New Orleans on Aug. 21, 2007.

7: Jill Zarin posed for a photo during NBCUniversal's Central Park Beautification project on April 20 in New York City.

A Social Scene that's anything but Broken

- Canadian band 'always creating and having brunch together'
- It's tough to get them all in one room to record new albums all the time
- Their solution? Remix what they've already recorded!

There are more than 25 people who can say they have been members of the band Broken Social Scene. For the past decade, this Toronto collective has churned out glorious bursts of indie rock and pioneered the movement of having so many musicians onstage that it can be difficult to figure out who is producing what sound. BSS alumni have included members of Metric and Ms. "1234" herself, Feist. Drummer Justin Peroff, who has been a full-time member since 2002, says being part of the band is a lifetime membership.

"The revolving door of existing family is absolutely always open," he says. "That is exampled in the last few local Toronto shows and there was the movie that documented one of them, and that was called 'The Reunion Show' by some bloggers, but it wasn't really a reunion show. Those people are always there, and we're always creating and having brunch together."

Getting so many people together to record isn't always easy, which is one reason why there are only four albums officially credited to Broken Social Scene, including last year's "Forgiveness Rock Record," which they are still touring behind. But Peroff says BSS found a remedy in releasing remixes of material from that album.

"In this day and age of Internet culture, when you release an album you generally want to create awareness, and a lot of how music is being listened to and shared these days is basically on a newsfeed on a blog," he says. "That's one way of communicating with your fans, so if you pop up on a newsfeed and you have an annex project to your record, like a remix series, you keep that awareness alive."

Peroff recounts with a laugh that in the early years of the band, one member wanted to actually quit: "He was like, 'Well, you know, I'm kind of giving my mission statement. I'm out of here.' ... And we were like, 'Dude, what are you talking about? You don't have to quit. You can always come back.' We're like, 'You do your thing. Give us a call. We'll be right here in six weeks, six months or six years.' ... So for the absolute family, nobody ever really dies. People always come back."

Saturday, 10 p.m.
Johnny D's Uptown
17 Holland St., Somerville
Call for cover, 21+
617-776-2004
www.johnnyds.com
This band is led by the Guinea-born Berklee professor and drummer Mohammad Kalifa Camara. Ethnically and instrumentally diverse, their pigeonhole-defying sound contains elements of ska, reggae, jazz, West African pop and more, but no matter what falls into the mix, it's lively and imminently danceable. This show is also a release party for their new CD, "Yigi (Hope)." The other act on the bill is Senegalubamba (yes, we spellchecked that).

This annual festival features more than 100 performers. Passim is known as an acoustic folk club, and many of these acts are acoustic, but not all of them are folkies: Expect blues, soul, surf, singer-songwriter pop, Americana and even a little jazz-funk. Basically, it's like Passim is a giant living iPod of awesome music on shuffle. For four days!

Bread and Puppet: 'Man = Carrot Circus'
Friday, 6 p.m.
Cambridge Common Mass. Ave. and Garden St., Cambridge
Free, 617-800-9539
www.breadandpuppet.org
According to its promotional material, this show by Vermont's premiere DIY multimedia political theatre troupe is "based on the revelation that upright man rooted in dirt was created in the image of the upright carrot rooted in dirt." Expect people on stilts, unusual homemade costumes, grotesquely beautiful homemade puppets, a live marching band and possible sociopolitical awakening.

▶ So, according to Bread and Puppet, this may have been what the first humans looked like.

Hyde Park Jazz Festival
Saturday, 2 p.m.
DCR Martini Hatch Shell 1015 Truman Pkwy, Hyde Park, free, 617-364-2243
www.danieliansmith.com
Set up a blanket and enjoy some outdoor jazz to usher out the summer and welcome the fall. Featured performers include the Suprasonics, a Hammond B3 organ trio, Ron Reid and Sunsteel (an island-sounding band led by a steel drummer) and Daniel Ian Smith and A Collective Directive, a straight jazz combo.

Local brewers are throwing a party, and you're invited. There will be beer there — more than 80 different kinds from 20 different entities. Three Day Threshold will provide live music as you gleefully lose track of the number of "samples" you've had. But don't worry about it running out — the one thing these guys have stocked is beer.

Wednesday through Oct. 2
Central Square Theater 450 Mass. Ave., Cambridge
$15-$45, 866-811-4111
www.centralsquaretheater.org
This farce — a wacky reimagining of the eponymous Sherlock Holmes mystery by Arthur Conan Doyle — returns to Central Square Theatre for an encore round after last summer's successful run. Its 16 roles are again amusingly split between the same three actors, and its sense of the source material (and historical accuracy) is as loose as ever.

Postwar Russia in the Art of Felix Lembersky
Through Dec. 23
Rubin-Frankel Gallery, Hillel House, Boston University, 213 Bay State Rd., Boston, free, 617-353-7634
www.bu.edu/hillel/gallery
Lembersky was a Russian Jewish artist of the early and mid-Soviet era. Originally a socialist realist, he imbued his work with everyday humanity, unflinchingly examining all of Russian life. He mastered capturing the reality of individuals as well as their greater symbolic import — a giant, cold, imposing piece of machinery, for example, seems to represent the entire industrial ethos.

This documentary captures the L.A. punk scene circa 1979-80 from the diverse perspectives of bands, fans, promoters and writers. Seminal groups, including The Germs, X and Black Flag (way before Henry Rollins), onstage and in their homes, reveal a dedicated subculture that sees no separation between art and life.

We all scream for ice cream

LINDA LABAN
LINDA.LABAN@METRO.US

The dog days of summer are quickly slipping by — and with them go the excuse to linger over a bowl of homemade ice cream. Except this is Boston, and we're grown-ups, so let's head to a bar.

Between lunch and dinner, the sunny bar at Kingston Station (25 Kingston St., Boston) morphs into a cafe for some afternoon delights. Chef Dana Love raids the booze to create creamy delights such as the Car Bomb (Guinness, Baileys, Jameson), which has an engaging bitter aftertaste from the stout; Jamaican Jamboree (espresso, rum, Tia Maria); and Fidel Castro, a refreshing passion fruit and rum blend inspired by this pretty bistro's drink of the same name ($7).

At elegant M Bar (776 Boylston St., Boston), pastry chef Nelson Paz churns up a colorful collection of sorbet push-pops and sinful selection of chocolate-dipped ice-cream popsicles ($5). Popsicle flavors include mascarpone and coffee in dark chocolate (it riffs on tiramisu), pistachio and strawberry smothered in white chocolate and a lemon verbena and peach (which has a lovely tea flavor) dipped in milk chocolate. The flavors are incomparable and the chocolate's thick! The refreshing sorbet push-pops, which are fat free and vegan, include green apple and mandarin, coconut, banana and passion fruit or raspberry and lemon. The latter benefits from freshly squeezed lemon juice, adding some vitamin C, too!

When is an ice cream not an ice cream?

When it's a chocolate moussicle. In the South End, at her chocolate boutique Chocolee (23 Dartmouth St.), Lee Napoli creates these gloriously gooey frozen desserts ($3), but only on weekends. Her rich, caramel-y chocolate mousse is coated in super-dark chocolate and magically suspended on a stick. Addictive and then some.

Carbonated concoctions

The DIY craze, which makes homemakers age their own cheese and brew craft beer, has reached our cola. But before you hide your stash of Pepsi, heed the soothing words of author Andrew Schloss: "Making soda yourself is stupid easy," he reassures. "All you need is a sauce pan, some tall glasses and lots of ice." Of course, there's one more addition you might want: Schloss' new book, "Homemade Soda." DOROTHY ROBINSON

"BACHMANN: IRENE IS GOD'S MESSAGE FOR WASHINGTON," MSNBC.MSN.COM, AUG 28.

Tea Party-animal Michelle Bachmann told a Florida audience this week that Hurricane Irene was God's way of sending a message to the United States. (What, we should we stock up on batteries?)

Bachmann's campaign has since explained that the congresswoman — an avowed evangelical Christian — was joking. If so, we don't get the joke. (Would someone so devout really trivialize the word of God?) Regardless, there's a disturbing trend of justifying human death and suffering as instruments of God's judgment. We hereby warn the practitioners of such: It goes both ways.

Horoscope

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. The funds that will enable you to get something that you've wanted for a long time but always felt was too expensive are apt to finally become available. With the extra cash in your pocket, you can go for it.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Whether or not you realize it, your influence over your peer group is stronger than you think. Others will be easily swayed by the example you set.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Keep a matter that is of a sensitive, secretive nature between yourself and closely involved parties. For best results in resolving the matter, you need to maintain its exclusivity.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. When a close friend tells you something in confidence, he or she might leave it to your discretion as to whether or not another pal should be let in on the secret. Choose wisely.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. A material desire could end up functioning as a powerful motivator for you. If you really want something badly enough, you will be capable of figuring out how to acquire it.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Help with a critical yet perplexing decision is on its way. Listen carefully to the new alternatives being presented – one of them holds the key to your dilemma.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Perform to the very best of your abilities without thinking about what's in it for you. If you do a good job, the accolades will manifest.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You've heard it a thousand times: Relax and just be yourself when dealing with others, be they bigwigs or small fries. Whatever charisma you possess cannot be forced, so play it cool.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. As soon as you get everyone in accord regarding a family matter, put the wheels in motion and you'll get good results. Sit on things and you'll waste another toothsome opportunity.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Don't base an important decision solely on its material aspects. It'll be important to put credence in other factors, such as ethics. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Revolving door swings right way for Red Sox

Josh Reddick was back in right field Wednesday night, as the Red Sox looked to maintain their hold on the lead in the American League East.

With J.D. Drew injured, Reddick has given the Sox a huge boost — even more remarkable considering Reddick wasn't the one expected to fulfill such a role. It was Ryan Kalish who shined last season and was considered the heir-apparent in right. Instead, Kalish endured a lost season that ended Thursday with surgery to repair a bulging disc in his neck.

Kalish, 23, played just 22 games for Triple-A Pawtucket this season.

"He'll be fine. What everybody cares about is the kid lost a year, and a really big year of development," said manager Terry Francona. "He's a tough enough kid, and he'll do whatever it takes." METRO

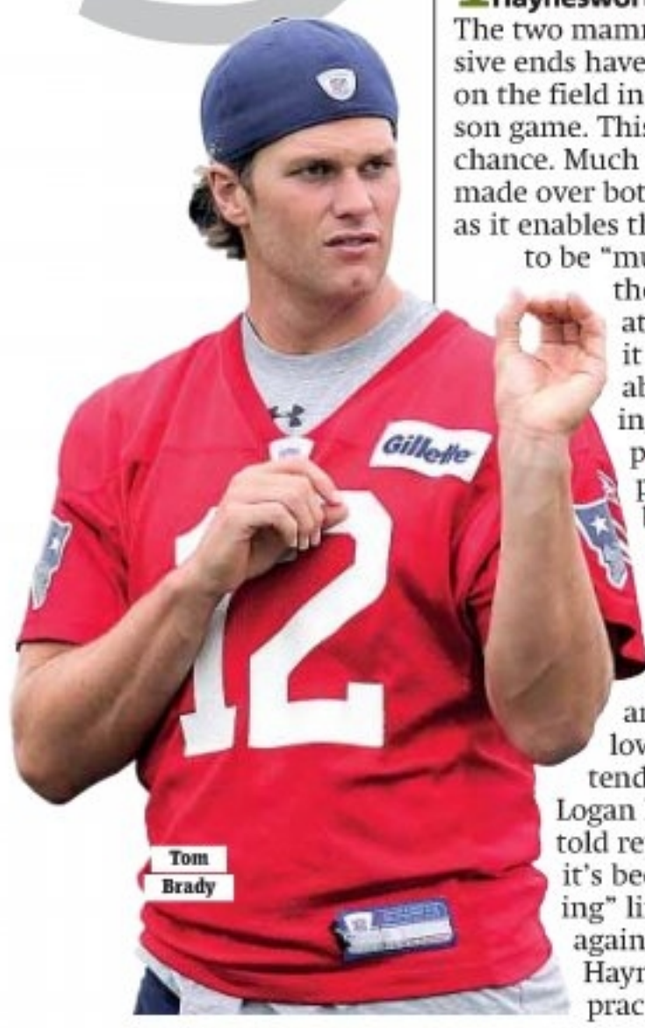
Things to watch against the Giants

Will Ellis, Haynesworth play? Final tryouts before rosters trimmed On TV: Thursday, 7:30 p.m., WBZ-TV



Tom Brady

1 Will there be an Ellis or Haynesworth sighting?
The two mammoth defensive ends have yet to step on the field in any preseason game. This is their last chance. Much has been made over both signings, as it enables the Patriots to be "multiple" in their defensive attack. But, is it much ado about nothing? Both players are practicing, but it's unclear how either of them look, as reporters aren't allowed to attend much of it. Logan Mankins told reporters that it's been "interesting" lining up against Haynesworth in practice.

▶ Welker

2 Will this game serve as a blueprint of sorts?
This is the first of two meetings between the Patriots and Giants, as New York comes back to Foxboro in Week 9 of the regular season.

Neither team expects to see the same things out of their opponent when the two clash again, but the familiarity from the preseason game will certainly help. The Pats' O-line was dominated last week by the Lions' D-line, and New York's D-line proves to be pretty strong as well.

If anything, an extra game in the preseason to protect Brady further down the line is worth it.

3 Tryouts begin as rosters get trimmed
Rosters are set at 80 players per team. By the time Week 1 rolls around, they'll be at 53. This does not include players on the PUP list, or players added to the practice squad.

Even so, there will be a ton of players playing for roster spots Thursday. A number of undrafted free agents will get the boot, but a few notable names will as well.

Darius Butler, Jermaine Cunningham and Brandon Tate haven't had great camps, and need good showings. And there will certainly be a shake-up. JIMMY TOSCANO

Welker fine, but status uncertain

Wes Welker said that he's feeling fine, but the receiver still hasn't been told if he'll play in Thursday's preseason finale.

Welker didn't practice this week, after sustaining a neck injury in Saturday's exhibition loss. He was pulled from the game immediately. Welker isn't sure if he'll be on the field Thursday against the Giants.

"If Bill [Belichick] wants me out there and the doctors OK it, I'll definitely be out there," he said.

Welker said he hoped to be ready for the season opener. The Patriots play at Miami on Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. METRO

Receptions for Welker — for 848 yards — last season after hauling in 123 balls for 1,348 yards in 2009. He also played in one less game in 2009.
